BOSTON VESSELS WRECKED.

Schooner Frontenac and Medford Caught in the Hurricane at Key West.

BOSTON, October 12. Tidings reached this city yesterday afternoon of the loss at Key West of the four-masted schooners Frontenac and Medford, both owned by John S. Emery & Co. of State street and the narrow escape of their crews from death.

Capt. E. A. Richardson of Deer Isle, Me., the commander of the Medford, was exhausted when rescued, and he was too weak to send a message to his owners. The telegram announcing the loss of the two schooners came from Capt. J. L. Coombs, master of the Frontenac.

The Frontenac and Medford were both chartered for a trip from Baltimore to the stricken port. The owners, believing the hurricane season was over, closed the charter. The Frontenac carried out 250 tons of coal, and the Medford had 2100 tons of grain.

After a fast passage down the coast, both schooners arrived outside of Key West October 4th. The weather was extremely rough at the time, and they were held outside for five days before there was an opportunity to enter the harbor and go to their discharging berths.

According to the telegram from Capt. Coombs the Frontenac was driven ashore and filled with water. She is so badly damaged that it is thought she will prove a total loss. The Medford was overwhelmed and sank.

While the brief telegram made no mention of the crews, it is believed that all on board both vessels were saved. The owners say that had any of the men been lost Capt. Coombs would have informed them.

The Frontenac was built at Bath in 1904. She was 225.5 feet long, 43.9 feet beam and 19.8 feet depth of hold, with a net tonnage of 1457 and a gross tonnage of 1704. She cost $80,000.

The Medford was a somewhat older vessel, having been built in the same yard in 1900. She was 201.7 feet long, 40 feet beam, 18.6 feet depth of hold. Her net tonnage was 1160 and gross tonnage 1352. She cost $60,000. Both schooners were only partially insured.

BOSTON, Oct. 14. Reports from Key West state that there is a possibility of saving the Frontenac and Medford. The Medford drifted about 4-1/2 miles and now lies SSW from Key West light-house, with two feet of water over deck; cargo all on board. The Frontenac drifted about five miles; if part of cargo is jettisoned it is probable that she can be floated; ship's own pumps lowered water one foot last night.

Arrangements have been made to dispatch a wrecking expedition to the scene and tugs will probably leave to-day. Ralph C. Emery, treasurer of the John S. Emery & Co., inc., owners of the two vessels, left here last night for Key West, accompanied by a wreck-master.

THE NEW APPLE LAW.

Mr. J. J. Libby, a well known fruit dealer in Portland, thus describes the condition of the fruit market:
There have been persistent reports that apples this year would be of miserably quality and unusually scarce, consequently high. The fact is, according to Mr. Libby, that there are more apples on the market now than can be disposed of, for the reason, mainly, that the present high prices on summer apples reduce the consumption. Consequently dealers are left with a big stock on hand, and that will result later in a big cut in price.

The fact that the quantity and quality of fall apples is good does not mean that uncalculated fruit is plentiful. The season was so dry that the average uncareful grower of field apples will yield nothing, or so little that the fruit will be of no profit to him. It is the cultivated orchards that are considered in making reports of the general crop.

"The new laws have helped us out a little," said Mr. Libby when asked if the buyers had been offered any more protection than in other years. "The time when there was no actual, accepted apple is gone, and now, when buyers have a lawsuit over an alleged breach of contract or any similar disagreement, a jury can be made to understand the difference between a number one, number two and number three apple. The section of the law relating to uniform packages has been strengthened, too. As it is now, manufacturers must make all barrels for the shipment of apples of the same size, not simply somewhere near, as was formerly the custom with some. But the apple laws are not perfect now. They are greatly improved, though, and at the next session of the legislature a few lacking details will probably be added in an amendment."

One of the Last Ship Carvers.

Is Still Doing Some Work—Recollections of the Old Days.

With the disappearance of the old-time wooden vessels also went out the art of the ship's wood carver. In the old days every vessel carried a fanciful design of the person for whom she was named. There were the days of clipper ships—long curved bows that left plenty of room beneath the bowsprit and tapering jibbooms for such fancies. Later on, after the Civil war, came in the era of straight stems; the figureheads then gave way to merely the name of the vessel, or in some cases, to the termination of the stem termed a scroll-work. This, in seafaring phraseology, was called "a fiddlehead," because of its resemblance to the neck of a violin.

The figurehead, however, lasted for many years. For a long time the Booth line's steamships, which called at Martin's stores, carried sculptured representations of dignified-looking men, each with a hand thrust impressively into the breast of his frock coat. Few of these were ever carried away by stress of weather. More than a score of years ago the bark Janet Court of Glasgow was towed into Panto's store by an iron spar. She was an iron vessel with iron spars. She was loaded with nitrate of soda on the west coast of Africa, but in the Caribbean sea was caught in a hurricane. All her spars snapped at the deck like clay pipestems. There was nothing left but the bowsprit, and, beneath it, the round face of Janet Court, when the bark was launched in "Glasgow" many years before. The crew had been taken off. Later the bark was picked up and considerable salvage recovered, although an evident attempt had been previously made to set the derelict on fire. But, the figurehead with the face of Janet Court refused to be burned, and the figurehead of her namesake intact, from her maiden snood to her buckled shoes, Janet came into port, a little waterworn, but still smiling, when everything above decks had been swept away.

Much money was spent on the figureheads and ornamentation of vessels' stems and counters in past days. The Hollanders and Italians spent a great deal on these parts of their ships, and some of the carvings and gilded work were most elaborate.

Probably the most singular figure ever perched on a vessel's stem was that on Col. J. H. Payne's yacht Aphrodite. Venus, in heroic size, in the attitude in which she rose from the sea, was fashioned under the bowsprit, one hand shading her eyes as she gazed out to sea. The goddess looked neither as handsome nor as comfortable as in her usual pose on the waves. The figure, which was said to have been designed by a woman artist, was finally cut away, and a smaller one substituted. The first one is said to have cost a large sum of money.

About the last singular figurehead seen on an iron clipper ship was at the Clinton wharf, Atlantic dock. The vessel was named Kingfisher, and sure enough, the figurehead was a kingfisher, a little hunter just beneath the bowsprit. Even the navy department has recently ordered the removal of the gold decorations on bows, on the grounds that these big castings are too heavy, and tend to pull down the head of the ship.

Most people undoubtedly like to see some ornament on the stem of a vessel, but that the end of the ship carver's art is gone forever is admitted by Charles Brown of 11 Summit street, the last of the men who make this kind of ornamental ship construction a specialty. He is now 68 years old and just as active as he was 40 years ago. Surrounded by a number of fine edged tools, he talked to an Eagle reporter a couple of days ago.

"Yes," he said, "the ship carving business is a thing of the past, so far as large vessels go. The Dutch, Italian and Spaniards keep it up, but they are not the only ones that do. The iron, or steel, ship of any class, with straight stem, put an end to the business, and I guess I am about the oldest of the men who made a specialty of carving figureheads and other ornamental work on the stems and counters of vessels. In recent years the work has been practically confined to tugboats and yachts, including motor boats.

"I designed and executed the ornamental work on hundreds of boats of all classes, and I may say that all the yacht designers ask me for my views and to submit designs. I made the decorations for James Gordon Bennett's first yacht Naumoua; for the Sultana designed by J. Beaver Webb; for the Sovereign and for a number of others.

"The last work of the kind that I did was on the Carnegie institute's non-magnetic survey yacht Carnegie, now supposed to be on her way to Hudson's bay, which was built at Tebo's yard in South Brooklyn. That work is done in relief on the trailboards and gilt. It was one of the designs I submitted to Henry J. Gilead, who designed the boat, and he was much pleased with it.

"Of course, there is some taste and a good deal of work attached to ship carving. Practically I do all the work myself. I first lay out the design in my mind, then sketch it out in chalk and set to work. The material used is white pine, as a rule, it being easiest to work, but it requires a good deal of anxious care to get out your work properly. See those two eagles there on the floor? I have just finished them for the New York Central Railroad Co. They measure five feet across the wings spread, and I made many of them every year for the boats of that company, also for the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. and, in fact, for all the harbor boats. So you see, I am kept pretty busy all the time. But the work of the ship carver is fast dying out, just as the business of the wooden shipbuilder has disappeared, except for the construction of coasting vessels, tugs and harbor boats. And these are going, too."—Brooklyn Eagle.

LURE OF THE CIDER BARREL.

The Old Fashioned Way Truly to Enjoy a Seductive Beverage.

Cider may be a plebeian drink, but when properly made and preserved it is a very seductive one. Readers who can remember conditions in New England forty or fifty years ago will recall as one of its institutions the russet cider procurable occasionally from friendly orchardists who usually kept it for their own cellars. It had a flavor and a quality of its own, and he who was privileged to sample it will tell you even now that it was worth going to a back farm on a steep hill up a bad road to get. Spitzbergen cider too had its own smack.

Probably no apple, however, makes so rich and heady a beverage as the old fashioned crab—the kind about as big as a cherry. Pure, it is fit for part for use and needs the addition of sugar. With this understood, and with a judicious management of the bottling at exactly the right period of incipient fermentation, crapple cider at six to twelve months old is calculated to make its merits known.

Most cider nowadays is used for vinegar. For this purpose the cider pressed from wild apples growing by fence sides or in secluded pastures is much better than that made from the windfalls and culls of grafted orchards.

Like many other things manufactured now by scientifically improved and rapid processes, which come from steam driven mills and hydraulic presses, lacks the quality of the juice slowly crushed out between wooden grinders, allowed to stand in the pumace for twenty-four hours and then squeezed through filters of clean straw by an old hand-lever screw. No touch of metal tainted or tinged the juice. You might be allowed to use a tin dipper in securing a drink from the vat, but it must be of bright, new metal without flaw or scratch in the tin.

The true way to get the full enjoyment out of new cider, however, was to draw it through a cane, often straw inserted into the bung hole of a just filled barrel. Especially useful was it that this be done slyly, when the old folks were all busy elsewhere. Then there was a sweetness and a satisfaction in the drink which no succeeding year has ever brought us in any imported vintage, how famous soever they may be.

THE NEW ANNEX, GIRLS' HOME.

A full description of our Home building with the attractive new extension will doubtless prove interesting to the friends who have not had the opportunity to personally visit it. The structure is a two storied with hip-roof and joins the main building at the westerly side. The entrance is on the southeast and through a handsome colonial porch. From the vestibule one enters the large reception hall which connects with the hall in the main building. On one side is a lavatory and toilet, and opposite a cloak room for the convenience of the children. The school or play room opens out of the reception hall and is connected with the dining room by large double doors. These rooms are one of the excellent features of the new building and are a much needed improvement. They are each 17x24 ft. in size, and the school room has four large windows with southern exposure. The dining room is on the northwest and is lighted by five windows. Leading out of the dining room is a large and commodious butler's pantry, well-lighted.

The kitchen is sunny and convenient and store closet adjoining. The floors and finish throughout are of the best material. The stairs leading out of the reception hall meet at all of corresponding size on the second floor. From this on the north side opens a large bathroom with improved modern plumbing and fittings. On the opposite side is an ample linen closet. There are six sleeping apartments beside a locker for clothing, all opening out of a main hall. The rooms are large and airy with hardwood floors. They will be furnished with white iron beds, the chairs, tables and dressers of oak. Everything will be plain and durable in the fittings.

A large attic is reached by an easy flight of stairs, where later several rooms will be finished for sleeping apartments. The new addition has also made possible some much needed improvements in the main building. The matron will now have a convenient suite of rooms on the right of the entrance, consisting of parlor, sleeping room and private bath. The room formerly occupied by this officer, enlarged by the addition of the old dining room and other space will be used as a library and sewing room.

There are now eighteen rooms, exclusive of closets, baths and pantry. The heating will be hot water, and electric lights are installed in every part. The work has been in charge of Mr. J. G. Aborn, contractor, which is in itself a guarantee that everything is well done. To those who have been so untiring in their efforts to bring about this change which was imperative to the convenience, healthfulness and safety of the Home, there is great satisfaction in seeing it so near completion. It is a splendid substitute for a real home to the poor unfortunate girls who come under our charge, and a benefit as well to the State at large in caring for and fitting for useful lives those who might otherwise be inmates of penal institutions.

There will be quite a lack of funds to meet the expense of building, and an appeal is made to interested friends to assist in any way possible in wiping out the debt. Will you not make it the duty nearest at hand?—The Girls Home paper.

BAY STATE FISHERIES.

Massachusetts fisheries have been made the subject of a preliminary report by the Census Bureau, of which at present only the bare figures are available. They show the existence of 3,141 independent fishermen, and that 8,436 wage-earning fishermen are employed in the industry. Some 671 vessels go from Massachusetts shores in pursuit of fish, having a total value of $2,927,766, and an average value of $4,363. These figures do not include the 3,684 small boats employed in the industry, valued at $176,851. Bait, fuel and provisions necessary to equip the fleet cost $1,354,550 in the year ending Dec. 31, 1908.

The total value in 1908 of the apparatus of capture was $775,310. Lines cost $274,700, pound and trap nets (214) $161,910, seines (387) $153,320 and crab, cel and lobster pots, of which there were 43,342, cost $66,910. Some 9,045 gill nets were used, valued at $78,940. Whaling apparatus, once representing a princely fortune, is now shrunk to $10,200. Of the money tied up in the fisheries, $164,220 has gone into shore and accessory property.

COD AND HADDOCK LEAD.

The total value of the products of the commercial fisheries of Massachusetts for 1908 was $7,065,230, and had-dock led in value, with mackerel, clams, herring and whale products next in that order. The oyster crop fell below the clam crop in point of total value, although only 154,000 gallons of oysters were taken to 334,000 of unshelled clams. The value of the lobster and halibut hauls—both threatened with extinction—was almost exactly the same. Following are the figures of the catch, not including wholesale fish dealers or canneries:

SHOOTING PAINS
IN THE LIMBS
The RIGHT Time
Caused in This Case by Rheumatic
Poison in the Blood.

The Tonic Treatment Reaches the Root of the Disease and its Cures Are Permanent.
Most treatments for rheumatism aim to "keep down" the poison in the blood and enable nature to cure that particular attack. Then, when the system becomes run down from any cause the disease again gets the upper hand, and it all has to be done over.

The tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has proved by hundreds of cures that it builds up the blood to a point that enables it to cast out these poisons through the regular channels of excretion, the bowels, kidneys and the skin. When this is done the rheumatism is permanently cured and as the blood is kept pure and rich the patient will be immune from attacks of rheumatism.

Mrs. J. L. Deacons, of No. 116 Pearl street, Newton, Mass., has no hesitation in recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for rheumatism. She says:
"I suffered for years from rheumatism, which, I think, was brought on by exposure. I had terrible shooting pains in my limbs and the muscles of my hands. I was very nervous and at times was so restless that I could not sleep. Oftentimes I was in such a condition that I could hardly move about."

"Finally I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills upon the advice of a friend. They seemed to be just what I needed. My nerves became steadier and in a short time the pains had disappeared. I can heartily recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

If you are suffering from rheumatism and the treatment you are taking is not relieving you, or if you are actually getting worse while taking other treatment, then do not delay but give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a thorough trial. The remedy that cures others will cure you.

A booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," will be sent free to any sufferer from rheumatism upon request.
Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be mailed, postpaid, on receipt of price, 5

The National government estimates the number of Maine's water-powers as 1,222.

Senator Depew says that "Europe is sitting on a keg of powder." Well, if she keeps on sitting and don't smoke or scratch matches there will be no trouble.

The sample New York ballot as made up is 4-1/2 feet across and 15 inches deep, and will have twenty-one columns of candidates for the voter to choose from. How many of these ballots will be cast intelligently?

Mr. Nunnes, proprietor of the Falmouth Hotel, Portland has gone to the jail in Alfred to serve a 60 days' sentence for violating the prohibitory law. But suppose he had committed the offence in Waldo county!

Open time for moose in Maine began at midnight October 14th and will continue until December 15th. The prospects for this game are said to be excellent, and Game Warden Neal expresses the belief that good moose heads will be taken this season than for some years. A small army of hunters have already taken to the woods.

A feature of the Maine Democrat is "Maine's Hall of Fame," under which caption are given what are termed "brief biographies of the great men of our State." But they are portraits rather than biographies, painted by Pattangall with the skill of a master. In last week's issue of the Democrat Hon. Herbert M. Heath was "done up brown." We hope that the editor of The Lewiston Journal may be given a place in this portrait gallery. He would be a glorious subject for Pattangall's facile brush.

Tuesday was National Apple Day. We have not heard much of it in New England, but it appears that it has been observed since 1905, when the third Tuesday in October was thus designated by the New York State fruit growers. It was the day selected for the opening of the New England fruit show in Boston and the beginning of organized effort to rehabilitate the apple culture in this section. We shall know more about National Apple Day after this.

One of Peary's first points against Dr. Cook was that the latter was accompanied only by Esquimaux in his alleged dash to the pole, and that their testimony was not to be relied upon. Now in his elaborate attempt to discredit Dr. Cook's achievement the basis of his attack is the statements of Esquimaux. The effect this had upon one intelligent reader is indicated by his remark that he had begun to believe that neither Cook nor Peary had reached the pole. The fact that these statements of the Esquimaux are presented in the form of affidavits adds nothing to their weight or value.

The Pacific Mail steamer City of Peking, built by John Roach at Chester, Pa., in 1874, and which has been laid up in Mission Bay for more than two years, has been taken to Mission Rock, San Francisco Harbor, to be used by the government as a detention station for Chinese and other immigrants who are held up at that port for various causes.

The City of Peking, of 5,079 tons gross, was considered a mammoth craft in her day, and a special train from Washington carried a large number of prominent officials, members of Congress and newspaper men to the launching. Lunch was served by Mr. Roach after the launching and the train was lavishly supplied with liquid refreshments. The senior Senator Cameron of Pennsylvania and Secretary Richardson of the Treasury Department are recalled as members of the party.

The sympathy of the public, and especially of parents, will be with the faculty of the University of Maine in their efforts to suppress hazing. The deaths of victims of this senseless and dangerous practice are frequently reported, while others are maimed for life or otherwise injured. The Waterville Sentinel says: "Public sentiment demands that the custom of hazing shall become a thing of the past with other traditions which belong to the age of chads." And the Bangor Commercial in defining its position says:

The main body of the students are laboring under a big mistake by putting themselves in an open state of rebellion against the constituted authorities by absenting themselves from their classes and college work. It cannot be expected that their cause can be given the same consideration as it would were they to continue their duties and formulate their demand for "justice." The faculty of the institution has already received many assurances of support in the standing that has been taken thus far.

Our theory is that the Governor should be held accountable for the proper enforcement of our State laws, and that his servants for carrying out such enforcement should be the sheriffs who have the enforcement of the laws within the different counties in charge.—Independent Reporter.

The theory is all right, the difficulty is in reducing it to practice. Gov. Cobb before his nomination declared that if nominated and elected he should enforce the laws—and this was understood to apply especially to the prohibitory laws—to the best of his ability. He was nominated and elected, and in entering upon the duties of his office found that he had no power to enforce the prohibitory law and the Sturgis bill was passed to give him that power. This measure was not his creation, as wrongly alleged at the time; was not, in fact, wholly satisfactory to him, but it was the best legislation that could be had at that time. No one can say that Governor Cobb did not live up to his pre-election promises and his oath of office.

Of course the sheriffs should enforce the laws. That goes without the saying. But do they? Yes, as to Waldo county, but no as to some other counties. Of course if the sheriffs did their duty, there would be no need for the Sturgis law. But evidently there is great need for such a measure as the Hastings bill, so that when a sheriff and his deputies have done their full duty their work cannot be set at naught by a too lenient court.

Last season was an exceptionally favorable one for growing and harvesting potatoes, and the crop was so profitable that a largely increased acreage was planted this year. The conditions were favorable up to about the time of harvesting. Then a very heavy rainfall, succeeding a period of drouth, thoroughly saturated the ground, and was followed by unseasonably hot weather. This produced rot in the tubers. On low lands the crop is practically a total failure and potatoes that when dug were free from blemish later developed rot. The first Aroostook potatoes sent to the New York market arrived in such bad condition as to put Maine potatoes under the ban. A recent issue of The Packer in reporting the New York potato market said:

There is no demand here at all for Maine potatoes and the cars that have arrived hardly bring freight charges. The Maine tuber is afflicted with a sort of a watery brown rot. To start with, when the potatoes are loaded at shipping points they show up in fine shape and the shippers seem certain that they will carry well and open up attractively at destination. But all of the Maine spuds that have come in here lately have contained about 75 per cent. of this rot.

This naturally affected the Aroostook market, and the latest issue received of the Fort Fairfield Review says.

Very few potatoes are now being bought in the Aroostook valley for the city markets. Many of the buyers early this fall bought quite heavily at good prices. Many of the potatoes they then took in began to rot, the price dropped, and the buyers were stuck. Now the buyers do not wish to buy heavily again till they see how well or ill the potatoes now stored will keep. Quite a good many lots that were thought at first to be all right have since been taken out and sorted over again or sent to the factories. Some lots seem to be keeping quite well. The Fort Fairfield dealers now buying give 80 to 90 cents. Only three buyers in Caribou are reported as buying this Wednesday afternoon, 75 cents being their figures, though they have been giving 85. The rot has struck heavily around Houlton and below during the past week or two, nearly as much rot being found there now as in the Aroostook valley. The crop along the St. John river is later than elsewhere, and how it will finally come in is not yet well known. In Fort Fairfield seven eighths of the potatoes are now dug, and the rest will be out if the weather is good a few days longer.

It is inevitable that there should be bad as well as good years in the potato business. Aroostook has had its ups and downs—its years when low prices prevailed; years when most of the crop went to the starch factories. But the good years offset the bad years. The danger that a good potato year may tempt a farmer to put all his eggs in one basket, as it were. Induced by the fine crop and good prices of last season some may have invested more than they should in anticipation of a continuance of such favorable conditions, only to meet with disappointment and financial loss.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular free.

The weather looked doubtful quite early that morning but the clouds began to break later and it was decided that the day would be fine, and it was not until about 3 in the afternoon, that it began to sprinkle and soon was raining quite hard. There was a good attendance and a fine display of vegetables and fruit. There were not as many fancy articles as were shown last year, but there were many pretty quilts and rugs, besides pillows, &c. The baby show attracted quite a crowd. They were all such fine looking children that the committee decided that they all deserved a blue ribbon. #### EVERYBODY

You are Requested to be Present at the Opening of The City National Bank's New Building On Dedication Day.

While we have and intend to always devote ourselves to the interests of the people of this community, this day is one which will give us exceptional pleasure to give up entirely to them, and every call on that day we shall consider a special favor and compliment to Belfast and to us. We hope the people of the towns round about will make particular effort to get here on that day and favor us with their presence. It does not matter whether you have business with us now or ever expect to have, we want you to come just the same.

We want the people to see for themselves what we have provided for them in this new building, and we have provided no more than they deserve and our necessities require.

While we know personally most of the people of Waldo County and immediate surrounding country, we shall not be satisfied until we know all and are acquainted with us and our methods of doing business; while our deposits have grown from $265,000 in 1905 to $1,000,000 in 1909, we have as yet only tapped the financial reservoirs and resources of this community.

We propose to build up in Waldo County a banking institution second to none in the State, a banking institution where the Interests and Savings of this community will be kept sacred and safe.

Dedication Day Will Be Announced In Next Week's Issue. Plan to Come to Belfast on That Day.

FRANKFORT. A large crowd was in attendance each evening at the fair held the first three nights of last week at the new Catholic church building, and the affair was a great success, both socially and financially. The place was beautifully decorated with flags and Japanese lanterns, and the many booths gay with bunting of various colors and a profusion of autumn leaves made a very pretty scene. An entertainment was given Monday and Tuesday evening which was greatly enjoyed by all. Wednesday evening a grand ball was given in the K. of P. hall, which drew one of the largest crowds of the season, and for which Batchelder's orchestra of six pieces furnished music. Several hundred dollars will be added to the church fund from the proceeds of the three evenings. Mrs. Freeman W. Batchelder, who has spent the last two weeks with Miss Althea Gray at her home in Vinalhaven has returned. Mrs. Thomas Cuddy of Searsport has been calling on friends in town this week. L. F. Pendleton and Charles Beale have left for a trip to Boston and will attend the Mechanics' fair. Mrs. Fred Hendricks, Miss Hendricks and the Misses Davis of Stockton Springs were among the out of town people, who attended the fair and dance Wednesday evening.

THORNDIKE. Rev. F. S. Dolloff of Jackson filled the pulpit at the Center church and spoke earnestly from the words, "I am not ashamed to own the Gospel of Christ." Fred L. Higgins recently bought two cows, one of Harry Staples of Brooks, and one of our townsmen Paris Dyer. Mr. Dyer has replaced the one sold by buying another and Fred has sold a cow to Mr. Dale. Miss Lettie Hunt, who recently graduated as a trained nurse from The Anna Jaquith Hospital in Newburyport, Mass., and had been passing a vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Hunt, was called to a case in Newburyport and went on last Saturday morning's train. Mrs. Sarah L. Lewis of Belfast is the guest of Mrs. V. N. Higgins and other friends in town. Master Clyde Gilley goes to Belfast this week to pass the winter with his mother, Mrs. Charles Crockett, and will attend school there. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stevens are both on the sick list. Mrs. Leonard, who has been passing several weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Fred Cole, went to Dorchester, Mass. October 16th. The farmers are hustling their work along. There are still many acres of potatoes to dig, and lots of apples unpicked. It looks now as though the cold of the winter would find some of both still unharvested. James Cates got a valuable work horse last week. Dr. Darling was called, but the case was incurable.

WEST WINTERPORT. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Abbott Campbell was the scene of one of the prettiest of home weddings on Tuesday evening, October 12th, at eight o'clock, when their only daughter, Sara Ellis, was united in marriage to Mr. William Townsend Hall in the presence of the immediate families. The bride was becomingly and handsomely gowned in an exquisite creation of white batiste with white lace garnitures, and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. Mrs. Estella Campbell acted as bridesmaid and was charmingly attired in white. The groom wore the conventional dress and was attended by Mr. Charles Albert Campbell, a brother of the bride, while Miss Dorrie, the little daughter of another brother, Mr. Percy A. Campbell of Somerville, Mass., was the daintiest of ring-bearers, wearing pale blue and carrying the wedding ring concealed in the petals of a large pure white rose. The single ring service was most impressively performed by Rev. A. J. Lockhart of the Methodist church. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Albert D. Snow, Mrs. John K. Kilburn and Mr. and Mrs. Percy A. Campbell. It was much regretted that the parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Hall and daughter, Miss Etta, were unable to be present owing to the illness of the mother. Heartiest congratulations and good wishes were showered upon the happy pair and all partook of a dainty wedding repast of ices, fruits and assorted cakes, after which the newly wedded couple departed for their new home here, which was recently purchased and previously made ready for occupancy, and is one of the most picturesque in town. The wedding gifts were both numerous and beautiful. Mr. Hall has conducted a general store in West Winterport for several years, and being energetic, honest and of exemplary habits has been eminently successful, and has won the esteem and respect of all, while his lovely bride, who endears herself to old and young alike by her sweet, sunny and charitable nature, and has been very successful as teacher of the piano, and is prominent in musical, fraternal and social circles. Mr. and Mrs. Hall have the best wishes of a large circle of friends for a long and happy wedded life.

You are Requested to be Present at the Opening of The City National Bank's New Building On Dedication Day.

While we have and intend to always devote ourselves to the interests of the people of this community, this day is one which will give us exceptional pleasure to give up entirely to them, and every call on that day we shall consider a special favor and compliment to Belfast and to us. We hope the people of the towns round about will make particular effort to get here on that day and favor us with their presence. It does not matter whether you have business with us now or ever expect to have, we want you to come just the same.

We want the people to see for themselves what we have provided for them in this new building, and we have provided no more than they deserve and our necessities require.

While we know personally most of the people of Waldo County and immediate surrounding country, we shall not be satisfied until we know all and are acquainted with us and our methods of doing business; while our deposits have grown from $265,000 in 1905 to $1,000,000 in 1909, we have as yet only tapped the financial reservoirs and resources of this community.

We propose to build up in Waldo County a banking institution second to none in the State, a banking institution where the Interests and Savings of this community will be kept sacred and safe.

Dedication Day Will Be Announced In Next Week's Issue. Plan to Come to Belfast on That Day.

LIBERTY. Mr. Edward G. Cox is at home from Bangor for a short stay at his home in West Liberty. Rev. E. A. Dinslow is gradually regaining his health and hopes to be able to resume services at the church next Sunday. The Eureka Cornet Band of the village furnished music at the Center Montville Grange fair October 12th. Many of our people also attended the fair, which was a good one for a local show. A good sized delegation of our young people attended the dance at Allens hall in Montville last Thursday night to hear the music by the Leahy Sisters. Miss Gladys Skidmore is at home, having given up her studies at the Case Normal school for the present. Liberty Lodge, No. 31, F. & A. M., held its annual installation of officers Saturday evening, October 16th with a good attendance of members and friends present, as the exercises were a semi-public affair. The following officers were installed by Dist. Dept. Grand Master, W. J. Greeley of Liberty Lodge, assisted by Mr. J. R. Grand Warden G. H. Cargill as Marshal, in a most impressive manner: W. M., Clayborn H. Wellington; S. W., Arthur H. Norton; J. W., Warren A. Moody; Treas., Albert J. Skidmore; Sec., Leslie F. Hurd; Marshal, G. H. Cargill; Chap., Lucius C. Morse; S. D., Orrin W. Ripley; J. D., Frank Bridges; S. S., Theodore E. Rowell; J. S., Fred A. Giman; Tyler, Otis S. Wing. The exercises were interspersed with music by Mrs. Helen Hurd and Mrs. Blanche Cram, with Mrs. W. L. Cargill as organist, and it greatly helped to brighten the occasion. Speech-making was indulged in and a fine supper was served to all present after the exercises.

Through the thoughtful generosity of one of our summer residents, Cyrus H. K. Curtis, Rev. and Mrs. L. D. Evans will enjoy a trip abroad sometime the coming winter. It will be a well deserved vacation for both Mr. Evans and his wife. November 1st Mr. Evans will begin the twenty-first year of his pastorate here.—Camden Herald.

The deed of the Phoenix House and lot, carrying house and stable has been transferred, by Leonard L. Gentry, of Providence, R. I., to Edward B. Smith of Hartford, Conn.

There is general complaint of the scarcity of apples for harvesting in this vicinity and in places the women have gone to work in the potato fields and engaged in gathering apples.

Mr. Edwin Frost of Swan Lake avenue picked some raspberries for dinner in his garden; Sunday, October 17th. The berries were very large and of excellent flavor, and were of the earliest variety.

The Non-Partisan W. C. T. U. Alliance will meet in the Council room, Memorial building, Saturday, October 23rd, to make arrangements for the sewing school. The committee appointed from the several churches are expected to report at this meeting.

At the regular meeting of the Belfast Improvement Society, held last Monday Mrs. F. A. White reported that the work of cementing the spring at the Park had been completed and the pipes laid to the pavilion. The water supply is abundant and pure.

The annual benefit concert and ball of the Belfast Band, to be given in the Opera House the night before Thanksgiving, will deserve, no doubt, a liberal patronage. No one will be spared on the part of the managers to make it a most enjoyable occasion.

The Young Ladies' Social Union of the Baptist Church will hold its first meeting of the season tomorrow, Friday, with Mrs. A. G. Roberts, No. 25 Miller street. It was postponed last Friday on account of the reception of Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Merriam at their home in Seaside street.

At a hearing October 15th before commissioners James S. Harriman and Fred G. White, a dispute presented against the Mary E. Shute estate by Hartford Shute, a brother of the deceased, the bill was dismissed. This is the final disposition of a case which had been in litigation for some time.

Shirley Carleton has been engaged the past week in harvesting potatoes at his former home in Winterport and Deputy P. G. Hurd has been in charge here. Mr. Carleton reports the tubers as rotting in the wet places, but expects a yield of 200 bushels an acre. But for the wet he would have had 250 bushels an acre.

The Travellers' Club will meet with the Misses Mathews, 24 High street, Tuesday, October 26th. Program: Paper, "Spanish Colours and Settlers up to the time of Ferdinand and Isabella," by Miss Elizabeth Kelley; paper, "Cathar," by Miss Nellie H. Hopkins; reading, "Influence of Tradition in Spanish Life," by John Hay, by Mrs. Edward Sibley.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Merriam were at Seaside to their friends last Friday evening, and Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Roberts and Rev. and Mrs. A. Luce, pastors of the young couple, were among those present. The home was prettily decorated. The bride was assisted in leaving by the groom's sisters, Misses Edith and Isabel Merriam. Many useful and pretty presents were received, and the affair was very enjoyable.

M. B. Smith of Pearl Brook Farm, Belfast, planted some 30 acres of potatoes and thinks that the poorest part of the field, will turn out about 250 bushels to the acre, while the large section will fair to go 300 bushels or more. Mr. Smith's father, J. F. Smith, on the same farm has a small field that is expected to produce the banner crop on the farm this year, having given them special fertilization and extra care—Turf, Farm and Home.

Maurice E. Curtis is building a house for his mother, Robert L. Curtis, on the land the latter recently bought of the C. B. Hazeltine estate on the road from Northport avenue to the Perkins district. The house stands on a lot at the eastern end of the land and the barn built by Mr. Hazeltine, which stood near the middle of the lot, will be moved to a site near the house. Mr. Hazeltine bought this land for a hayfield and used a large amount of fertilizer on it. Mr. Curtis will engage in general farming.

The Guild of the North church will have charge of the First Parish supper of the season, which will be held on October 26th. This supper will not be public, but only for the members of the parish and their families. Miss L. Grace Chadwick has charge of the supper and will be assisted by the members of the society. Miss Evelyn P. Morrison is chairman of the entertainment committee and a novel program is being arranged. The members of the parish are cordially invited to be present at this, the first supper of the season, after the long summer vacation.

THE WONDERBERRY AGAIN. We have received the following note from a subscriber: "I noticed the item in The Journal about the Wonderberry and would like to suggest that anyone interested wants to get at an illuminating discussion of its identity and merits they should send 10 cents for a ten weeks trial subscription to the 'Rural New Yorker,' asking for numbers bearing on the controversy between that paper and John Lewis Childs, the introducer of it for Mr. Burbank. I raised some plants from seed myself in pots and have discarded them after reading the Rural New Yorker."

AUTUMN LEAVES. The abundant foliage of the past season has provided the most beautiful autumn leaves seen for many seasons. The woodbine covering the house and tree trunks on the W. H. McEllan place on Primrose Hill make a very attractive picture. The deep-red leaves on the Field Oak, the class tree of B. H. S., 102, on the upper school house common, would appeal strongly to the many absent members of that class, and the graceful maples on the Spring street side of the Unitarian church yard, that for so many years has displayed its gorgeous tints, has more brilliant ever before. Another maple at the Miller street corner of Church street has been dropping leaves most perfect in texture and tone. In fact, all over town the delicate yellow of the towering elms, the brilliant reds of the maples and the deep garnets of the woodbines have been for some time a delight to the eye. The old part of Grove Cemetery was literally carpeted last Thursday with the falling maple leaves.

A lady's umbrella with the initials R. S. K. has been left at the City National Bank.

The North Church Guild will meet with the Misses Wiley on Congress street next Monday evening.

Maitland B. Smith of Hartford, Conn., was in Belfast October 16th and paid to Clerk of Courts Tileston $3,786.99, the amount of fines and costs on liquor cases for which the bondsman of Winfield S. Edminster were held responsible.

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U., will be held with Mrs. G. B. Fletcher, 22 Bay View street, tomorrow, Friday, at 2.30 p. m. It will be an important meeting, as plans for the membership contest for the Institute at Monroe next Wednesday, and other things, must be discussed.

The W. C. T. U. is filling a box of clothing and reading matter for Rev. J. L. Carson, of Cape Jellison. He finds use for much material among the people on the small islands down the bay. Thanks are extended for articles so far received. Others may be sent to Miss H. M. Millett, 25 High street.

A perfectly plain ladle has attracted much attention in the Chase & Doak window the past few days. It is the property of Jefferson F. Wilson and was handed down from his grandfather, Hon. John Wilson. It was made by the late Timothy Chase in 1880 from 18 Spanish silver dollars. The handle bears the letter "H" and it was originally a gift to Hon. John Wilson's wife "Hannah."

Marie, the seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Latham, Miller street, entertained her little friends on her birthday, October 13th. She received a large number of pretty and useful presents. Ice cream, cake, confectionery and fruit were served and the little ones are enthusiastic over the delightful time furnished by the young hostess.

NEW COUNTY WORK HOUSE. County Commissioners Edward Evans, W. A. Bragg and George E. Bryant were in session Monday to locate and place the contract for a new workhouse on the county lot on Congress street. Mr. Alvin Blodgett has the contract. It is to be on the north side and a continuation of the jail building; about 16 by 55 ft.; one story. Rough lumber will be used and shingles instead of clapboards.

Monday morning W. C. Oxtan of Rockland, who was at work on the roof of the Coe-Mortimer building, fell a distance of 27 feet, striking on his head and shoulders. He was taken up unconscious and Dr. Elmer Small was called. On examination it was found that no bones were broken. Later he was taken to the Waldo County Hospital, where he is fast recovering. As there was no trouble with the staging it is supposed that he must have become faint or dizzy.

The Journal was misinformed with regard to the gift of the heirs of Joseph Williamson to the city of Belfast. It was not, as erroneously stated, the manuscript of the second volume of the History of Belfast, which is still in the possession of the family, but the material used by Mr. Williamson in compiling the first history. This, it seems to us, should have been given to the library, rather than to the city, where it could have been readily accessible. There is still hope that the second volume of the history may be published.

A W. C. T. U. Institute will be held in the church at Monroe, October 27th, (if stormy, next day), from 10.30 a. m. to 4 p. m. Picnic dinner. The nearer Unions of Belfast, Winterport, Swanville, Jackson, and the Jackson Y. are included, but all friends are cordially welcome. There will be a talk on school savings banks by the State Supt., Mrs. Ella Barton Smith of Thorndike Station; a letter from the State Treasurer on the Treasury Department; a paper on T. L. T. work, "How we did it," by the captain of the winning side in Monroe's membership contest; and other features.

POORS MILLS. The funeral of the late Ernest B. Hirsch was held at his residence October 13th. He leaves a wife and two small children. Charles A. McKinley came home from Camden Monday for a short visit. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walker of Rockland were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Merriam recently. Miss Cassie Banks spent a few days last week with her sister, Mrs. Estelle Haley. Mr. and Mrs. George Hartsorn of Belmont and Mr. Pease and daughter of Middletown, Conn., were the guests of Mrs. O. A. Wade last Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Foss returned to their home in Massachusetts last week. Charles Lassell of Burnham is visiting his sister, Mrs. W. A. Wentworth.

POSTAL NOTES. Postmaster Field has secured an extension of the service on R. F. D. No. 2, with an increase of pay to the carrier, Alonzo H. Applin. The increased distance is from 23.4 miles to 24.2 miles and the compensation is raised from $864 to $900. The route is amended as follows: Belfast post office to Knowlton's Corner, to Patterson's hill, to Upper Bridge, to Board Landing schoolhouse, over new road to Oak Hill road, to Trichy place and retrace, to Young's Corner, around pond to Swanville post office, to Webber's Corner, to T. C. Nickerson place and retrace, to Board Landing schoolhouse, to Upper Bridge, through Robinsontown to shore road to Seaside, across bridge to post office. Postmasters have been notified of the increase of the registry fee to 10 cents in addition to postage and the increase of the limit of indemnity for losses of first-class domestic registered mail to $50. These changes become effective November 1, 1909.

MORE LIGHT. The following interesting facts in connection with the Penobscot Bay Electric Company have been solicited from their local manager, Mr. A. C. Hopkins, who recently came here from Brunswick, after being employed a year in Bucksport by the company. A new sub-station is in course of erection near the old power house in East Belfast. The foundation, 26x36, has been laid and the masons are at work on the walls. Another sub-station has been built in Prospect, about half a mile from Prospect Ferry. The power station at East Orland generates 6,600 volts, which is conveyed by poles to Bucksport, cabled to Cony, carried by poles about one mile down the island, where a cable is laid across the Penobscot river, a distance of 1,100 feet, to the sub-station in Prospect, where the voltage is raised to 19,800 volts. From here the current is brought by the way of the back road from Seaside to the East Belfast sub-station, where it is reduced to 2,200 volts. The poles are all up and the wires are strung to the junction of the North Seaside road with Swan Lake avenue. The wires will be cabled under the drawer of the lower bridge to the city. There is a private telephone line from the power station in East Orland to this city to expedite matters in case of accident. The old plant in East Belfast will be put in complete repair and a new 250 horse-power dynamo will be placed in the new sub-station for use in case of emergency. It is hoped to have the power connected by the middle or last of November, and in the meantime Mr. Hopkins is giving the best service possible with the old works. Miss Maude B. Steward and Mr. O. D. Mudgett have been retained by the new company.

STEAMER NOTES. The steamer Camden, Capt. Brown, went into Seaside harbor, Wednesday, October 13th, and made a landing at Kidder's point, Seaside, the first time in history that a turbine steamer had ploughed the waters of Stockton harbor. The Camden arrived at 2 p. m., and waited until the arrival of a special excursion train from Aroostook county bringing a party of 37 excursionists bound for Seaside. The train arrived at 2.45 and the boat sailed at 2.55. She had no trouble in making the landing and a large crowd gathered to see the unusual sight of a big boat at the Kidder point dock. The work of rebuilding the steamer Ransom B. Fuller of the Eastern Steamship Co. has started in Boston and the work will be carried on with all possible haste. When it is completed the steamer will be 40 feet longer and several new staterooms will be added to her excellent accommodations.

REMINISCENCES OF THE LATE MISS WEBSTER. A Massachusetts subscriber in writing for an extra copy of The Journal containing the obituary of Miss Pauline Webster says: "Her death was a shock to me, as I had not heard of her illness. At the time she was in Boston taking lessons in singing, she and her sister Caroline were in my father's family, and there I learned to love them both. Did you ever hear of the joke on uncle Daniel Lane, who mistook her high notes for the steamer's whistle, and started for the wharf, thinking the boat was in at the wharf, unusually early. He used to tell of it, as a good one on himself. I do not know if Pauline knew of it, but Miss Isabel Treadwell used to have her dog sit up at the piano with her and say, 'Now Tasso, sing like Pauline,' and while she played the dog would sit and howl in different tones until all listeners would be convulsed with laughter. I think Miss Webster will be mourned by everyone who ever knew her, she was such a charming little woman."

SHIPPING ITEMS. Sch. Mary Augusta arrived from Boston Thursday with hard pine for Capt. Babbidge to be used in the construction of the wharf for the Coe-Mortimer Co. The new four masted schooner Mary L. Baxter, which was launched a few weeks ago from the yard of Gardner G. Deering in Bath and commanded by Capt. M. G. Dow, sailed from Bath, Sept. 24th, for Newport News, Va., arriving there at 6.30 a. m., Sept. 27th, and loaded a cargo of coal and sailed from that port Sept. 30th, arriving at Port Tampa, Oct. 17th, making the run from the Kennebec river to her port of delivery in 17 days which is unusually good time for a sailing vessel. Capt. J. L. Coombs of the schooner Frontenac, wrecked in the recent gale at Key West, is a citizen of Bath. He was recently married and bought a house there on which he had made many improvements. He is a heavy owner in the wrecked schooner, Capt. Ed. A. Richardson of the wrecked schooner Medford is a native of Deer Isle and that is his home in his vacations. He is a widely known and popular master mariner and has been a frequent and always welcome contributor to the columns of The Journal. The latest advice are that both vessels may be saved. Schooner Margaret M. Ford, Capt. Webster, has chartered to load stone at Buck's Harbor for New York. The bark Sea King of 1,491 tons, built in Bowdoinham, in 1877 by G. H. Theobald when she arrives in Bath, in December with 1,000,000 feet of lumber, including 300 spars, shingles, heavy timbers, etc., from Oregon, consigned to Morse Brothers, will be cut down for a barge at one of the Bath shipyards. The Sea King left Seattle August 19th, and will be the first craft of her rig to sail into Bath since the bark Onaway arrived there two years ago with a cargo of lumber from the South. The sch. J. V. Wellington was sold at auction by the U. S. Marshall at Port Clyde last week on a claim for salvage and brought $1,000. The schooner is 243 tons net and was built at Philadelphia in 1861. She was owned here at one time. Sch. Mary Augusta has discharged her cargo of hard pine for Capt. Babbidge in the stream and it has been rafted and towed to the Coe-Mortimer plant to be used in the construction of the wharf. The three-masted schooner Sarah D. Fell, of the Pendleton fleet arrived from Bangor, light, last Sunday for repairs. The schooner Stormy Petrel sailed from Jersey City September 28th for Belfast with cement for Cooper & Co. So far as known here the schooner has not been reported.

CHAPIN & ADAMS CO.,
 204 State Street, BOSTON, MASS.

The Universalist Social Aid will meet with Mrs. John Stevens, High street, this, Thursday, afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The contract for the extension of the Federal building in this city, to provide the additional room needed in handling the mails, has been awarded to W. H. Fassell and Co., of New York, who were the lowest bidders. Their bid was $35,483. The money has been appropriated, but it is so late in the season that the work will not begin until next spring. As previously stated the entire interior of the post office will be remodelled and made much more convenient. With three letter carriers and six R. F. D. carriers the work is carried on under great disadvantages with the present inadequate room. In securing the appropriation for this much needed improvement Congressman Burleigh has placed this community under renewed obligations.

"And they dropped their guns and run, and the dog after 'em. Yes, sir, and the dog after 'em. And the dog after 'em." The old adage of "give the dog a bad name and hang him" holds good in Bobby's case, as the above fragment of a conversation overheard between two very small boys the other day will show. Although Bobby has mended his ways, and is now one of the mildest and gentlest of dogs, the stigma of reproach, earned in those early days when, with ferocious barks, he chased the passing teams, killed the neighbors' hens and cats, and made himself generally obnoxious, still clings to him, and small boys and girls in the neighborhood where those early days were spent usually have business on the other side of the street, or seek a refuge on their own doorsteps until he passes by. One of these small urchins was asked recently: "Do you want to buy my dog?" "No," was the emphatic reply. Upon being asked why not, he replied: "Because he is too fat." No doubt meaning that Bobby is a larger dog than he really ought to be, and through this chilling atmosphere of disapproval moves Bobby with confiding, friendly brown eyes, wagging tail, and peace and good will in his heart toward all the world — except — oh well — every rule has exceptions. Bobby does despise a dog. Why shouldn't he.

THE LECTURE COURSE. At the meeting Tuesday evening of the program committee of the lecture course at the home of the chairman, Rev. Adolph Rosbach, four of the six numbers of the course were decided upon. November 18th will be presented an illustrated lecture by Peter MacQueen on Central Africa, "The Land and Game where Roosevelt Hunts." January 23rd, Frederick M. Brooks, a member of the Twentieth Century Club of Boston, will lecture on Alaska or Labrador. February 10th, Rev. Samuel Parkes Cadman, D. D., pastor of the Central Congregational church, Brooklyn, N. Y., will give what the leading newspapers pronounce one of the best lectures ever delivered in this country, "The Puritan in Two Worlds." February 23rd, Phidela Rice, a pupil of Leland T. Powers, will give a "miscellaneous program calling forth all the laughter and tears which the most concentrated episodes of life afford." The committee is in correspondence regarding the fifth number. It will probably be either Prof. Charles Zeublin of Harvard College or Dr. Charles A. Eastman, a full-blooded Sioux Indian, who has made his way from a wigwam in the forest to a modern home in a New England college town. The committee has under consideration several musical numbers, including the Adamowski Trio of Boston, and the last two numbers will soon be decided upon.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS. Everybody is invited to be present at the opening of the City National Bank's new building on dedication day and see for themselves the facilities provided for doing business. Knowlton offers for sale the restaurant No. 99 High street, now doing a good business. His reason for selling is that he has business in Florida for the winter. Lost, a small black coon kitten. Edison Phonographs, $1 down and 75 cents a week. The Regal Shoes, sold at The Dinsmore Store, are the smartest ready-to-wear shoes designed this season. ## THE TRAVELLERS' CLUB.

The first meeting of the Travellers' Club for the season was held with Mrs. George E. Brackett October 12th and was an unusually interesting session. The Club has taken up parliamentary usage as a part of the winter's study and it will be given in lesson form by different members. The first lesson, taking organization, classifying motions and giving by example the various forms of amendments, points of order, etc., was given by the hostess. The test was on an imaginary basis and dealt with the Belfast Historical Society, which met with 50 members present in the reading room of the annex of the Belfast Free Library, October 12, 1912. The meeting was opened in form and the principal business brought up was the vote to buy 50 copies of Williamson's History of Belfast, cloth bound. This vote was amended to leather bound, and the amendment amended for the books to be bought from the contingent fund. Mrs. Brackett's extensive experience in this line of drill made it a very apt and instructive lesson.

Mrs. Walter C. Shaw, who was present at the meeting of the Maine Federation of Women's Clubs in Waterville, gave the following interesting paper, which is printed at the urgent request of her fellow Travellers:

THE WOMEN'S CONVENTION AT WAT-ERVILLE.

Everything, from beginning to end, connected with the Women's Convention at Waterville, was interesting, and it is a grief to me that the written picture must fall so far below reality. From the newspaper reports, and what I have brought, one can get the gist of what was said, but he cannot get the spirit of the convention, or the personality of the speakers, which added much to the charm.

Our club was represented by six of its members, our Pres., Mrs. Sibley, vice-pres., Mrs. Dunton, Sec., Mrs. Brackett, Mrs. Clement of the Topic Com., Mrs. Knowlton and myself. My position as delegate entitled me to the privilege of voting and to being adorned with a badge typical of the Pine Tree State, it being a bow of green ribbon with a pine cone attached. Mrs. Dunton and I had the pleasure of rooming in a dormitory named in honor of the first woman graduate from Colby College—Mary Lowe, now about six years old and assistant librarian at Augusta.

Mrs. White, of whom we have such pleasant recollections, looking as though to the manner born, presided over the convention.

The address of welcome was given by the Mayor of the city. In it he paid a high tribute to women, saying she has played quite as important a part in the drama of life as man, citing as examples, Queen Victoria, Joan of Arc, Lady Henry Somerset, Julia Ward Howe, Frances Willard and many others. He said that many women had won literary fame, but that the home will always claim a high standard as a mark of distinction for women. He said also that we needed adversity to bring out powers that would otherwise lie dormant.

Mrs. Flagg, Vice President of the Federation, responded in the happy manner which we know is so characteristic of her. She attributed the delight of being in Waterville, in part, to the atmosphere of the college which pervaded the place, and said, also, that while at school we had dreams of what ought to be accomplished in life, and that she hoped the interchange of helpful ideas at the convention would inspire us to try to fulfill those visions.

Miss Georgia Bacon, President of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs, gave a very comprehensive address on Civil Service Reform, and it was said that even the men would have enjoyed it; which was, of course, the highest compliment it could possibly receive. She spoke strongly against the evils of the Spoils System, of which she had, I think, a disconcerting illustration right here in Belfast, when a man capable and in every way worthy of his position had it taken from him. She said: "Washington when appointing men for office always asked three questions. Is he honest? Is he capable? Has he the confidence of the people? She urged the women to favor to the utmost the Merit System."

Our Club was thrice brought before the convention in very pleasant ways; first by our President, Mrs. Sibley, then by Mrs. Flagg, and afterwards by Miss Clifford of the Jackson school. I will not interest you in the report, knowing it will interest you.

"The Travellers' Club of Belfast is represented here today by its secretary, Mrs. Brackett, well known to you in philanthropic work; by the efficient chairman of its topic committee, Mrs. Clement; by two vice presidents Mrs. Dunton and Mrs. Shaw; by Mrs. Knowlton, wife of our Supt. of schools, and last, and least, by its president. Two of our members have dropped out during this last year, but others have taken their places. Our membership has not increased since the last Federation meeting, simply because we have not permitted it. Some members of our Club thought it best to limit the number, although several good women are waiting and hoping for admission at some future date. Our study as a Club has been a continuation of the previous year's work—on Italy. It has been of exceeding interest. Our literary work for the coming months is a study of the history of Spain. We have also informed ourselves in some of the work of the Maine Forestry Association, and this, I hope, will aid us during the coming year to an active interest and support of the Forestry Committee. A paper given at our last club meeting on this subject by Mrs. Knowlton was very interesting. From time to time we have done some charity work. In June we were told by our State President of the needs of Miss Clifford's school, and our ladies, who are ever ready to respond to any call for help (indeed no more loyal Club exists), were so moved by this appeal that they sent immediately to the school a box of books, maps, pictures and a small flag and have promised further help this fall if necessary.

"I cannot close this report without telling you what a great uplift came to us in June from the visit of Mrs. White and Mrs. Flagg. Their presence and their words were an inspiration to our little club. It was a joy and a benediction to have them with us for the one all too brief day. I am sure we shall do more and better work because of their coming than we have yet done. We did not selfishly restrict the pleasure of their visit to ourselves but invited the two other Federated Clubs in our county to come to Belfast and share our blessings, and we had a most enjoyable union meeting. By the way, I am happy to inform you that the latest born of these clubs, that from Freedom, owes its existence to the influence of the Travellers' Club of Belfast."

ANOTHER WOMAN CURED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Gardiner, Maine.—"I have been a great sufferer from organic troubles and a severe female weakness. The doctor said I would have to go to the hospital for an operation, but I could not bear to think of it. I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was entirely cured after three months' use of them."—Mrs. S. A. WILLIAMS, R. F. D. No. 14, Box 39, Gardiner, Me.

No woman should submit to a surgical operation, which may mean death, unless she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made exclusively from roots and herbs, a fair trial. This famous medicine for women has for thirty years proved to be the most valuable tonic and renewer of the female organism. Women suffering in almost every city and town in the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It cures female ills, and creates radiant, buoyant female health. If you are ill, for your own sake as well as those you love, give it a trial.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

Mrs. Flagg, now President of the Federation, said before that vast assembly, that when she appealed to the Travellers Club of Belfast for text books to facilitate the work of the teachers at the Jackson school the response was so hearty and prompt that she was astonished. Then Miss Clifford (the one so sensible and seeming so interested in her work) gave in her report, a list of the books we sent and expressed high appreciation of them.

Mrs. Abbott, of the literature committee, whose face and dress betokened the highest type of refinement, paid a glowing tribute to Sarah Jane Jewett, saying that her stories would pass the purest law test, they were so simple and wholesome, and that she considered "Nancy" her masterpiece. Mrs. Abbott read a letter from the late Miss Jewett from which I will read this extract:

"I have watched a tendency in the clubs to give up effort on the part of most of the club members, and to make the meetings depend upon outside entertainment. Often these lectures or talks are not half so good as some of the members themselves might give, and the good of receiving, of being amused for an hour, is not equal to the good that comes from developing our own gifts. If we cannot write papers we can have interesting things that we have taken the trouble to find; or we can have interesting talks between three or four members who have looked up a matter of immediate interest. I do not undervalue our entertainment from outside, but to me they are almost always second in value to what we bring out of our own treasures of thought and experience. I do not think that they are what our clubs are really for, and the mere fact of the long lists of people who do things for the clubs, shows a dangerous tendency to stop doing for ourselves. I cannot make new plans toward this end."

"Yours sincerely,"

Mrs. Abbott also said not to leave the training of our children to the school or street, to point out to them the beauties of nature and to try to cultivate in them a taste for good literature.

The arts and crafts exhibit was exceptionally attractive and interesting. I particularly enjoyed the birch bark pictures. There was one, supposedly a bachelor, with a most disconsolate expression and darning his own stockings. The picture was entitled, "Serves Him Right," and it was purchased by one of the ladies to hang in the den of a gentleman friend. There were also in this collection some very beautiful candelabra shades made of silk and velvet to represent the fleur-de-lis. Many of the exhibits were from the Randall colony at Boothbay Harbor and I understand Mr. Randall offers a scholarship to the Federation.

Mrs. White, in speaking of the work of the Federation, said it was instrumental in raising a large sum of money for tuberculosis work and had introduced the Federation teacher. That the good work done at Malaga Island had been a great uplift to the inhabitants, and that she should emphasize more by making our club inclusive rather than exclusive.

The Forestry Committee reported that steps were being taken to have the region about Mt. Katahdin reserved for a State park, thinking it would tend to interest lumbermen in the forestry question.

The Civics Committee reported that in beautifying a city we added to its wealth, as it would induce people to come and establish homes.

Dr. Mary Crowell said children ought to be trained in the principles of hygiene; that more attention ought to be paid to the teeth, and that people were willing to subscribe larger sums for the inspection of their trees and cattle than for their children.

Mrs. Mason of the Legislative Committee reported that the Child Labor Law, for which the Federation had worked so hard, would take effect January 1, 1910.

The Reciprocity Committee said that it had many calls for papers on Forestry, Civics and Industrial Training, and wished every club would at least send one.

One lady said home reciprocity was much enjoyed by her club. Mrs. Flagg enquired what that meant. The lady answered, "I don't know, as I am reporting for someone else." Mrs. White then said, "I am sure we shall do more and better work because of their coming than we have yet done. We did not selfishly restrict the pleasure of their visit to ourselves but invited the two other Federated Clubs in our county to come to Belfast and share our blessings, and we had a most enjoyable union meeting. By the way, I am happy to inform you that the latest born of these clubs, that from Freedom, owes its existence to the influence of the Travellers' Club of Belfast."

Shakespeare, who said:
"The friends thou hast, and their adoption tried,
Grapple them to thy soul with hooks of steel;
But do not dull thy palm with entertainment
Of each new-hatch'd, unfeeling comrade."

Prof. Zueblin said that people whom we create our social inferiority, proved to be our social superiors, that the banker and hod-carrier had things in common, that money was not the basis of fellowship, but the work we do in the world, that Christ's work was among the lowly, and that our greatest religious example today is Count Tolstoy; that the poor will sacrifice more to help their fellow creatures than the rich; citing as an example, a man who slept out of doors three nights (two of which were stormy) for the sake of giving the shelter of his home to a poor woman with two children, friends of his wife; that Italian children lead ours in their appreciation of art and music; that the six wants in life were health, wealth, sociability, taste, knowledge and righteousness, and are within the reach of all; that dancing was a most healthful recreation and should be taught in the public schools, that the most common errors in speech were "you was" and "I don't know as," that youth are taught to be more congenial, and three generations enjoy living together in the same family. Time forbids my quoting any more, but the whole lecture was extremely interesting.

I was obliged to leave the convention just as our President, Mrs. Sibley, was making her debut as chairman of the resolution committee; but as there had been a success, as her resolutions were unanimously adopted.

And now I wish our club might adopt the following one:

Whereas, the holding of Women's Conventions is for the dissemination of all that tends to make life worth the living.

Resolved, that we, members of the Travellers' Club, attend as many of them as possible, and show by our presence that we are interested in everything that is of benefit to the world at large, and that we are trying to follow the suggestion of Prof. Zueblin to know more people and know them better.

GOING TO SEE CHICAGO.

Western Tour of Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Boston's business men are to invade Chicago. Under the auspices of the trade extension committee of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, a large number of members of that organization will leave Boston, probably in two special trains, on Thursday, November 11, returning to Boston the following Sunday. The trip is in charge of among those who will go the trade extension committee of the Chamber to acquaint the members of that body with trade conditions outside of Boston, and the idea has been taken up so heartily by the members that it is expected that the special train which will convey the party to Chicago will be run in two days.

The Chamber of Commerce made its first tour, visiting the cities of Maine, the idea was productive of such good results that a new plan was suggested—that of a series of trips to become acquainted with the business conditions in metropolitan centers. The trip to Chicago, the oldest of those who will go, will be followed by others of a similar character. Another New England trip is being planned, which will include a swing around the circle, taking in Springfield, New Haven, Hartford, Providence and Worcester, in order that the Boston business men may meet the business men of those cities. This, however, will not be taken until some time after the Chicago trip.

The purpose of the Chicago trip is similar to that of the Boston business men to Maine. No effort will be made to do business on this trip, but simply to observe the conditions of doing business in Chicago, and to see how they will go on the tour are many Boston business men who have never been in Chicago, and the trip is expected to be something of an eye-opener to them. Even many of the business men who have been in Chicago, have never had an opportunity to see the city, being naturally engaged on the train, both while travelling and when in Chicago. The transportation arrangements are not yet completed, but will be made some time this week. Just what will be done in Chicago is not yet settled. There will be a meeting with the Chicago business men, and the Chamber of Commerce will have a committee of a hearty welcome. A committee is now arranging the details of entertainment, but it is desired that this shall not be such that the Boston men will not have some time left to look about the city for themselves. There will be tours probably to the stock yards, the railroad terminal, and the new hotel, and, probably, also, an automobile trip through the business district.—Boston Transcript.

TAD C. (3) 2.26-1-4.

M. A. Nevins, superintendent of the Pastures, Belfast, bought the champion three year old trotter of the Small Brothers at Topham October 13th. The price is private, but we are in a position to state that it is realized close to a thousand for this colt.

Tad C. (3), (2.26-1-4) is in many ways a great colt. He is well bred, good gaited, good size, and has never been hurt, is as sound and as smooth as any horse that lives, with the best of feet and legs. He showed a quarter today in 35 seconds. Tarratine, his sire, is often referred to as the best bred son of the great Wilkes 8,571. His dam Molly (dam of two with standard records and one other just outside of the limit) never foaled one that could not step a little. The three that took records are the only ones out of her six foals that were trained.

Tad C. should trot in 2.15 as a four-year-old.

This is a case where congratulations are due both the buyer and the seller. Mr. Nevins has bought a high class colt at just a fair price, while the sellers have sold at a good profit and will try again—Lee, in Turf, Farm and Home.

TO BE LAUNCHED AT CAMDEN.

The New Schooner Frank M. Low, built by R. L. Bean.

The three-masted schooner Frank M. Low, will be launched from R. L. Bean's yard, Camden, October 27th. The following are some of the dimensions of the schooner: keel, 140 feet; beam, 34 feet; depth, 13 feet and 6 inches. She has a carrying capacity of 825 tons and was built especially for the lumber trade. Her gross tonnage is 542, her net 277. She has a hardwood bottom and hackmetack top, while the ceiling and planking are of yellow pine. She has 165 fathoms of 1 1/2 inch chain with 2500 pound anchors. Her lower masts are of Oregon pine 90 feet long and 25 inches in diameter. The topmasts and other small spars are native spruce. She has a 9-horse power engine furnished by the Camden Anchor Rockland Machine Company. Her windlass, capstan, blocks and castings were furnished by Knowlton Brothers. The sails by Louis Martin of New York. She has a 6 1/2-horse power engine in a large boat and on a trailer of 180 miles she went on an average of ten miles an hour. This engine was furnished by the Camden Anchor-Rockland Machine Co. The forward house is large enough to take the windlass in, bringing everything forward under cover, instead of having the windlass on deck exposed to the weather. The afterhouse is finished throughout in cypress. The vessel has all the modern fittings of larger schooners, including gas pipe ratlines. The following competent men were in charge of the various work: Will McAuley, foreman; H. C. Small, boss joiner; Harry Buchanan, boss caulker; Henry Bohndel, boss rigger; L. C. Cooper, adz work; A. B. Sampson of Thomaston, spar maker. The vessel's boats were built by the Camden Anchor-Rockland Machine Co. J. F. Thomas and crew had the painting in charge. The hardware was furnished by the C. J. Curtis Co.; the finishing lumber by the M. C. Whitmore Co.; furniture by E. J. Curtis; crockery by the Carleton-Pascal Co.; the linen and bedding by Follansbee & Wood and George W. Achorn; the medicine case by E. E. Boynton. The plumbing was done by A. H. Parsons. The vessel was drafted by J. S. E. Ellis of Rockport, a man 33 years of age, but who today can make his debut as a young man in Maine. Rogers & Webb of Boston are the managing owners. She was built for Captain William Nelson of Linden, Mass., and it is understood that Capt. Nelson, will command the new vessel. This is Mr. Bean's second schooner, and she is a good one.

THE CHILDREN LIKE IT
KENNEDY'S LAXATIVE
COUGH SYRUP

In Memory of Hon. George M. Warren.

The Hancock County Bar Association held memorial exercises at the court house in Ellsworth October 13th in memory of Hon. George M. Warren of Camden. The older members of the association were present, and a number of the young attorneys who knew Mr. Warren but slightly, but admired his numerous good qualities. The presiding justice's desk was adorned with palms and two vases of cut flowers sent by friends of the Warren family. Associate Justice King, presided, and Hon. E. P. Spofford, Deer Isle, Hon. John A. Peters, Ellsworth, and Hon. O. F. Fellows, Bangor, were a committee on resolutions.

Mr. Spofford was the first speaker, and from his intimate acquaintance with and friendship for Mr. Warren, gave an account, and friends present.

"The name of Brother Warren was more associated with the older attorneys of the bar," said Hon. John A. Peters. "Mr. Drinkwater and George S. Peters and others who have passed away. In some respects he was inclined to the old members, the old ways, methods of procedure and traditions of the association."

O. F. Fellows was unable to be present and his son Raymond gave his address. He said, in part, that Mr. Warren was one of his oldest and dearest friends. That he derived much pleasure from associating with him, and that his religion was his home and family. That he loved a good story and was a pleasing companion.

Hon. John B. Redman, after introductory remarks, said: "I have no words fitting to express my esteem for George M. Warren. I loved him dearly. There is only one other active member of this bar beside myself at the present time, of all those who belonged when he came to us some 35 years ago. Senator Hale and Brother Burnham then were members, but both are out of practice and Brother Cunningham of Bucksport and myself are all who are left of the association as it stood in his time."

Work has been started at the long idle plant of the St. Croix Shoe company, Calais, which went out of business some years ago, a number of cutters in the employ of Thurell, Bachelder & Co., who will operate this plant, having been kept.

Capt. W. L. Greenlaw, commander of the Stonington tug Betsey Ross for 20 years, and widely known as an active master of coasting vessels, died October 13th at Rockland after an operation for appendicitis. He was about 50 and married.

At a meeting of the trustees of the Maine State fair in Lewiston last week, September 5, 6, 7, and 8, 1910, were selected as the dates for the next fair. It was stated that the profits of the last fair would be $3,000. $2,000 of this will be applied to old bills, leaving $1,000 to reduce the indebtedness of the association.

Training of Farmers.

Progress in America. Great Results of Educational Work in Last Five Years.

Dr. J. Crosby, specialist in agricultural education in the U. S. Department of Agriculture, has just concluded his tour of the advance of agricultural education in the United States in the last five years. He is convinced that no other country has ever made such progress, and he reports to the Secretary of Agriculture.

The progress made in agricultural education in the United States during the last five years as a result of popular demand, stimulated by the work of the State agricultural colleges and extension stations of this department, is presented in the history of the world. When the present administration of the department began, all but one of the grant colleges were in running order and doing excellent work, but their income was only $5,000,000; today it is $106,000,000. Then there were less than four thousand students in agricultural courses; now there are over 100,000. Ninety of the graduates of these courses in 1907 accepted positions in the agricultural colleges and extension stations, or in this department, with salaries ranging from $500 to $1,000 and averaging $948.66. It is the presidents of the agricultural colleges that of late the graduates of agricultural courses find employment much more than the graduates from engineering schools.

The most rapid progress has been made in the field of secondary and elementary education in agriculture. In Wisconsin had the only State agricultural high school, and Alabama had the first agricultural high school. The number of agricultural schools in the public schools was scarcely thought of. There are now fifteen agricultural high schools of the Minnesota type and other agricultural high schools in the State, and sixteen private agricultural high schools. The normal schools preparing young men to teach agriculture, and on our part over two hundred and fifty public and private high schools and academies are giving some instruction in agriculture.

There are sixteen institutions offering correspondence and reading courses in agriculture, and twenty-six private or elementary agricultural schools. The National Education Association organized a department of rural and agricultural education, and has a standing committee investigating the desirability and feasibility of teaching agriculture in rural schools. The constitution of the State of Oklahoma requires teaching of agriculture in all its public schools, and the Legislature of the State has provided for four State normal schools with departments of agriculture, and agricultural high school in each district of the State. The Legislature of Virginia has appropriated $25,000 for instruction in agriculture in the public schools, and Michigan and Mississippi have made provisions for agricultural high schools.

In thirteen States the teaching of agriculture in the rural schools is now required by law. It is encouraged by the State and county school officers, and some of the rural schools of some other States and Territories. Four States and outlying possessions, then, are making some effort to give their youth the underlying principles of our greatest productive industry. As a result of this remarkable sentiment in favor of secondary agricultural instruction in public schools, and partly in response to the stimulus given by the amendment allowing the land colleges to devote a part of their income to the special preparation of instructors for teaching the mechanics of agriculture and the mechanics of agriculture, the Department of Agriculture has been presenting primarily by the office of experiment stations, and all of the other bureaus and divisions have aided in the work through investigations and through active cooperation with the educational agencies in different States and Territories.

The Weather Bureau is endeavoring to eradicate the superstitions and errors prevailing with regard to the weather, and with this object in view, it has its officials to give popular lectures and when practicable to offer systematic courses of instruction. During the last year numerous courses for the teachers of high schools have been given, and courses of instruction at agricultural colleges and other collegiate institutions have been offered in California, Connecticut, Illinois, Maryland, Michigan, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, and Washington and Wisconsin.

Popular instruction has also been given at expositions by means of exhibits, lectures, and the Department of Education of the State of New York has adopted as a part of its visual education scheme a popular lecture on meteorology prepared by J. R. Weeks of Binghamton, N. Y. This lecture, with the accompanying slides, is loaned for repetition before any school or academy. The Bureau of Education has given attention to the year to the improvement of the literature of meteorology for students and investigators, through the translation of special technical articles on the names of the atmosphere, the results of the Smithsonian meteorological observations, and the application of the results of a collection of problems advanced students of the physics of the atmosphere published in The Monthly Review for December, 1906.

DR. SALVES FAIL TO CURE ECZEMA.

Clog the Pores—Only a Liquid Can Reach the Inner Skin.

The old-fashioned theory of curing eczema through the blood has been given up. Many different salves have been used, but it has been found that these salves only clog the pores and penetrate to the inner skin below the epidermis where the eczema germs are lodged. The tremendous success of the only liquid eczema cure, oil of wintergreen, is due to the quality of penetrating probably the most penetrating of all the liquid eczema cures.

Dr. D. D. D. Prescription. After years of cure after cure, the world's leading specialists have accepted this as the eczema cure.

Do not hesitate to recommend Dr. D. D. D. Prescription at $1.00 a bottle, but for those who have never tried it, we arranged with the D. D. D. factories of Chicago for a special large bottle at 25 cents on a special offer now.

First bottle ought to convince every sufferer, and, at any rate, it will surely take away the itch at once.

You Never Tasted Such Superb Coffee

You who would know the distinctive goodness of perfectly roasted coffee—for your own sake try a cup of "Fifth Avenue" Coffee, New York's famous coffee.

For here is a coffee so smooth, rich and superbly aromatic that you will never drink any other beverage after you have once tasted it.

"Fifth Avenue" Coffee is a blend of the finest coffees grown. We select the choicest berries from the cream of the world's coffee crop. Berries that are richest in the aromatic oil which forms the flavor and fragrance of coffee.

Then we mix these coffees to secure our blend.

We spent years to obtain the blend that you get in "Fifth Avenue" Coffee. Years of tests and experiments to find out what people liked best in coffee.

The result is a coffee unapproached in flavor and fragrance.

You have only to taste "Fifth Avenue" Coffee to realize how perfect coffee can be.

Fifth Avenue Coffee

New York's Famous Coffee

"Fifth Avenue" Coffee is roasted in closed cylinders over glowing coals. The cylinders revolve over the fire. No flames or noxious gases can touch the coffee. No other coffee is roasted this way. We experienced years to learn that it takes 35 minutes to roast coffee to the exact degree of perfection. Every berry is roasted all the way through. The kernels are of the same rich, crisp brown as the outer shell.

That is why "Fifth Avenue" Coffee has the full coffee flavor that you don't get in other brands.

For other coffees are only roasted half way through. Just as biscuits that are half baked are unpalatable, so is coffee that is half roasted flat and lifeless.

Beware of Gas Roasted Coffee. Most coffee is roasted in perforated cylinders by gas. The hot gas flames pass through the holes in the cylinders, and in many cases the coffee passes through the gas flames. Thus, the noxious fumes from the gas intermingle with the coffee. That is the chief reason why most coffees disagree with so many people. And with this gas heat the coffee turns brown in ten minutes. But it is roasted only outside. Inside it is raw. And you cannot make good coffee from half raw berries.

That is why most coffees are weak—flat and weedy in flavor. That is why it takes so much ordinary coffee to get the desired strength.

And no matter how much ordinary coffee you use, you cannot get the fine, full-bodied flavor and exquisite aroma of "Fifth Avenue" Coffee. It takes 35 minutes of roasting to get this.

Avoid Bulk Coffee. "Fifth Avenue" Coffee is packed in airtight tins. Thus we preserve its full strength, flavor and cleanliness for your enjoyment.

Coffee that is sold from open bins is unhealthy. For loose coffee is exposed to germs, dust and dirt which adhere to the outer surface of the coffee beans.

Moreover, roasting tends to open the pores in the berries. And these pores absorb foreign odors. Thus impairing the fine coffee flavor and fragrance.

For your own protection and satisfaction, insist upon "Fifth Avenue" Coffee.

Then you'll have a coffee that will satisfy every member of your household. Think what it means to know such a coffee and to serve it every day.

WOMAN'S FLATTERY.

When women meet, then flattery becomes a very subtle art. They touch upon the very thing that's nearest to a woman's heart.

Good Mrs. Lean greets Mrs. Stout when they're invited out to dinner.

And murmurs sweetly, "Mrs. Stout, I'm very sure that you are thinner."

A giggle Mrs. Stout employs, her joy is such words can't convey it.

She merely answers: "Thanks, my dear, it is so sweet of you to say it."

Then Mrs. Lean, who's spare of frame and very little shadow throws.

By Mrs. Pudgy greeted is, and thus their conversation goes:

"Why, Mrs. Lean, how well you look! I scarcely knew you, I declare."

"You've grown so plump, I tell you what, there's nothing like the country air."

And Mrs. Lean a titter gives, she holds an ace, but fails to play it.

And answers: "Do you think so, dear? It does me good to hear you say it."

When summer's gone and autumn meet, returned from lake and hill and shore, just what they saw and what they did, they waste no time in talking o'er.

But woman fat greets woman thin and whispers words of comfort sweet:

"My dear, I'm sure you're getting plump, how well you look, I must repeat."

And woman thin tells woman fat, that she has lost her double chin.

And flatters her in the thought that she is really getting thin.

CONCRETE DWELLING HOUSE.

Durability of building materials at all times has distinguished one nation from another and will be so for ages to come. The erection of a building of any description, whether for business, or for educational purposes, for churches, or for dwelling, is, more or less, an important matter, and usually is given much intelligent thought and consideration, a great deal more so today than ever before. The building and making of a home is an epoch in one's career; therefore, it is well to make careful investigation into the relative merits of the materials entering into its construction. The intelligent observer has come to acknowledge the superiority of concrete from the viewpoint of economy and comfort. The cost, of course, will vary according to the location of the property, but it will be found that concrete structures, in many forms, can be built as cheap, if not cheaper, than perishable wood. Should a building be looked upon as an investment, one built of concrete will be found to outlast all others, since it will retain the original value for centuries, while every other known form of construction will rapidly depreciate.

Emphasis may be placed upon the fireproof qualities of concrete construction by the fact that in the great recent conflagrations in Baltimore and San Francisco, the concrete edifices were practically unharmed. In many cities and towns the cost of insurance of concrete building is extremely low, which, also, is an important factor. Comfort is found in the concrete building, because the walls are warmer in winter and cooler in summer, a very great consideration, while, at the same time, they are more sanitary than structures built of any other material. Builders everywhere are satisfied on this point, and, also, upon the adaptability of concrete to any form of architecture. The ease with which concrete can be moulded to any form, and the various modes of construction, including the solid walls, the hollow wall, the concrete block and stucco, give this material a distinct advantage over all others, and make possible any style of architecture.

Solid wall construction is now being very extensively used in factories, warehouses, garages, etc., also in large country houses, but the hollow wall, while, perhaps, a trifle more expensive, is considered the best form, as the air space thus formed acts as a barrier to either excessive heat or extreme cold—advantages that more than offset its slight additional cost. These hollow concrete blocks are largely favored by builders, and, if made by reliable concerns, are eminently satisfactory. Stucco, a lighter and less expensive form of construction, also is extensively used, applied over stone or metal lath.

There appears to be a growing interest among home makers for concrete houses. They can be built on city lots as well as in the country towns and the owners have the satisfaction of knowing that their homes are proof against the destroying elements of frost, flood and flame, and yet combine the qualities of comfort, permanency and architectural beauty. —Boston Transcript.

The Shoe Situation

The footwear market is steadily improving, but the price question continues to retard business and some branches of the trade are quiet. Staple lines of heavy goods for men's wear receive the chief amount of attention at present, but there is a better demand this week for men's medium and fine grades. Shipments from Boston the current week reported by the Shoe and Leather Reporter are larger, 29,188 cases comparing with 28,864 the previous week. —Dun's Review, October 16th.

Absolutely Pure

Miss Orissa A. Wiswell, who died at her home on Swan Lake avenue, October 14th, was a granddaughter of Henry True, an ensign in the American army in the revolutionary war. He lost his life by drowning in the Passagassawaukeg river, in Belfast, June 8, 1803, and his remains are interred in the family lot in the village in this town. The Henry True homestead on the Belfast road is now owned by Rev. R. G. Harbutt, pastor of the First Congregational church of Buxton, Me.

OBITUARY. Miss Orissa A., the daughter of the late Joseph and Martha (True) Wiswell, died at her home on Swan Lake avenue Thursday, October 14th, after an illness of a few months with a complication of diseases. She was an expert tailress and worked all of her life in the tailor shops of Seaport and Belfast. She leaves one brother, J. Melvin Wiswell of South Framingham, Mass., and five sisters, Misses Martha F., Ellen A. and Medora E. of Seaport, Mrs. Evelyn Blather of Los Angeles, Cal., and Mrs. Electa Wiswell of Boston. Funeral services were held at her late home Saturday, Rev. Harry Hill of the M. E. church officiating, and the interment was in the family lot in the village cemetery. The bearers were J. K. Kneeland, D. M. Nichols, H. H. Felker and E. K. Blake. News was received Friday of the death in Portland of Mrs. Vina Cole at the home of her son, Austin H. Cole. Mrs. Cole was the daughter of the late Thomas S. and Louisa (Sherman) Shute, and was born in Seaport. She is survived by her husband and four children, by a sister, Mrs. Greeley Small of Sunset, and by a brother, Charles S. Shute of Bangor. Funeral services were held Sunday at Sunset.

DODGE'S CORNER. Mr. R. T. Dodge, who is spending the winter in Everett with his daughter, Mrs. W. H. Cate, was recently presented with a beautiful bouquet from the pastor of the Congregational Church of Malden, of which he was a member 45 years ago. Geo. C. Seavey and daughter, Miss Sara, called on his brother Charles at J. E. Marden's last Sunday. Daniel Robertson is threshing grain in this vicinity. The following prayer, published in The Watchman, was written by George A. Kyle of Everett, Mass., who married Doris Cate, the granddaughter of R. T. Dodge. Mr. Kyle has also written a book called, "The Morning Glory Club."

A PRAYER.
Faltering steps and doubting mind
Are mine, O Lord, though strong desire
Impels me on to thee.
Show me the shining holy way
That I may tread it to the end.
Forgive me, give me faith and strength;
Dispel the mist before my eyes
That I may see Thy loving face.
Show me the shining holy way
That I may tread it to the end.

THE BROCKTON Y. W. C. A. The following from the Brockton, Mass., Times, will interest many of our readers:

The classes at the Y. W. C. A. for the coming winter will be organized next week under the direction of the new social helper, Miss Ethelred Havenor. Miss Havenor is at the association rooms every evening after 7 for the purpose of discussing class work with applicants and those who are not able to attend the regular classes may arrange for special hours. Miss Havenor announces her program as follows: Each Monday evening from 7 until 8, a class in physical culture; Tuesday evenings from 7 until 8, class in physical culture; Friday evenings from 7 until 8, class in piano study. Miss Havenor will also try and arrange for a class in physical culture for women, to be held every Wednesday afternoon from 3 until 4. Saturday afternoons will be devoted to the instruction of children, with a class in music from 2 until 3, in physical culture from 3 until 4, and in oratory from 4 until 5. In order to join any class $1 must be paid to first join the association. Rates besides this $1 will be $1.50 for a course of 10 weeks or $4 for the full course of 30 weeks. On next Tuesday evening the classes in physical culture, oratory and instrumental music will be organized and later, if enough applicants are received, for embroidery, cooking and dress-making classes, these, too, will be formed. Miss Havenor also opens next week an information bureau for the association rooms, where any desiring work or help may leave their names. The rates will be announced later. The traveler's aid work is another branch of Miss Havenor's numerous duties, and will require her to meet trains at the local station and direct passengers to the association rooms or give other helpful information in regard to the city. An effort will be made to have something of a social nature at the association every Friday evening and a special entertainment once every month. The social committee includes Mrs. Lettie Kingsley Barden, Mrs. Ella McLeod Sampson, Mrs. Doris Greenleaf Jackson, Miss Elsie Fanning, Miss Clara Collins, Miss Ella Thacher and Miss Ida Jacobs. This committee will co-operate with Miss Havenor, the social helper. At the meeting of the directors yesterday afternoon plans were furthered for "Shoe day", to be held October 30th, and next Tuesday afternoon a special meeting of the directors and members of the Ladies' association will be held to complete the arrangements. A pledge of $2 was acknowledged from J. A. Roarty, who has renewed this pledge for the past five years.

Mrs. Charles C. Park returned the middle of last week from a visit with her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. David Chase, in Rockland.

The apples are being gathered in this vicinity by some people, while others are thinking the autumn sunshine improves the fruit through October.

The Current Events Club resumed its fortnightly gatherings October 20th, meeting with the Misses Mary and Harriet D. Hichborn, Church street.

Mrs. Avalina C. Griffin has closed her residence on Sylvan street and will board the coming winter with Mrs. Maria F. Blanchard, a near neighbor.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Universalist parish opened its meeting last Thursday afternoon, holding the session with the Misses Mary and Harriet D. Hichborn, Church street.

The Ladies' Aid Society will be entertained this, Thursday, afternoon, by Mrs. Ralph Morse, West Main street. A general attendance is desired, as some questions will come up for decision.

Rev. A. A. Smith delivered one of his most excellent discourses last Sunday in the Universalist pulpit in our village. As a sermonizer and as a man he has few rivals in the denomination, or elsewhere.

Miss Lena Westcott of Bucksport, is with her uncle and wife, Capt. and Mrs. L. M. Partridge, Church street, for a short time. She arrived last Saturday. Miss W. is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Westcott, who moved to Castine after leaving our village.

Mrs. G. M. Houghton and daughter, Miss Hazel, of Bangor arrived last Saturday to spend a few days with the Misses Hichborn on Church street. Miss H. returned Monday morning, Mrs. H. remaining until Tuesday afternoon. Many friends cordially welcome these ladies in town.

Last week the family of Capt. L. M. Partridge was stricken with severe colds. All were ill at one time. Mrs. P. and Miss Leora are much better at this writing (Monday), and Capt. P., who is suffering from tonsillitis, sat up a short time in the afternoon. We trust the gain may prove continual.

Mr. Peleg Griffin of Boston arrived October 12th to spend a few weeks with relatives in Maine. He left Saturday to remain a week with his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Crawford S. Griffin, in Kingman, but will be the guest of his brothers and sisters in town again before leaving for Massachusetts.

Former residents of Stockton will hear with regret of the decease of Mrs. Ann Walker last Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fred Park, at Park. Mrs. W. was a highly respected resident of our village for many years, carrying on a large dress-making business, being an expert in that line. The sympathy of numerous Stockton friends is extended to the three daughters, sons-in-law and the grandchildren, who mourn the loss of this devoted mother and excellent woman, now gone "Over the River," after a long invalidism.

From Cape Jellison piers we received the following report, from the R. R. agent, Mr. P. Field, on Monday evening: October 14th, schooner Northland arrived with general cargo to load paper for New York. October 17th, schooner Sadie Wilcutt arrived, light to load lumber, and schooner Vanguard arrived with a cargo of lime. October 18th, schooner American Team, lumber laden, sailed for New York. October 14th, the Italian bark Papa, with a cargo of orange and lemon shooks, sailed for Mediterranean ports.

Miss Edith Griffin, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Horace M. Griffin, Middle street, left last Friday in response to a telegram to begin her duties as a trained nurse in the care of a seriously sick patient—a case of typhoid fever—at the Maine hospital, Bangor. She will henceforth follow her business in Maine, keeping headquarters in Bangor. Her many home friends wish her success in the calling she seems so admirably fitted for, as evinced by her work at the Eastern Maine Hospital previous to her graduation.

Our townspeople heard with regret of the condition of Miss Marian Kneeland—an acute attack of appendicitis—called her father, Mr. Charles Kneeland of Cape Jellison, to Presque Isle early last week. An operation was performed last Friday, which apparently resulted favorably, symptoms being most encouraging when Mr. K. left for home Monday morning. It seems a pity that this disease should compel Miss K. to relinquish the school in which she had proven so efficient a teacher.

as to merit the increase of salary given her at the beginning of her second year's services. We trust her recovery may be sufficiently rapid to permit her to resume her position before many weeks.

Shaw, which took place Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of her mother, Mrs. Almada Shaw. Rev. A. J. Lockhart officiated. The rooms were prettily decorated with autumn flowers and the bride was becomingly gowned in crepe-de-chine. The happy pair left at noon for a short wedding trip. The other event took place Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Abbott Campbell, when their only daughter, Miss Sara Ella, was united in marriage to William Townsend Hall, in the presence of their immediate families.
